

Vishinsky Denies Russian Rejection Of U.S. Atomic Plan

Committee Urges Free U. N. Debate

By FRANCIS W. CARPENTER

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., Sept. 24 (AP)—With Russia insisting on recording a unanimous vote, the U. N. Steering Committee recommended today full General Assembly consideration of the new United States proposals for peaceful uses of atomic energy.

With obvious heat, Soviet First Deputy Foreign Minister Andrei Y. Vishinsky told the 15-member committee that Moscow has not rejected the proposals originally laid down by President Eisenhower last Dec. 8, contrary to a statement by Secretary Dulles that it had. He read from a Soviet note dated Sept. 22 stating the Russians are ready to continue conversations.

Vishinsky also said the Soviet Union favored sending the American item to the Assembly. When the Assembly president, Elio N. Van Kleeffens, of the Netherlands, said there was no opposition to that move, Vishinsky demanded that the record show a unanimous vote to prevent future misunderstandings. Van Kleeffens said it would.

The first debate will be held later this fall in the Assembly's Political Committee.

Diplomats familiar with Russian policy moves speculated that the Russians eventually might try to bring the American proposals within the scope of the United Nations. This would permit them a voice in the operations of such a plan.

Some diplomats also professed to believe that the Russians eventually will find a way to join the scheme, especially since they have learned the United States and some of its friends are going ahead with developing the plan regardless of what the Soviet Union does.

Henry Cabot Lodge Jr., chief American delegate, told the Steering Committee at a brief session that the United States wanted to put before the Assembly a new item which follows:

"International cooperation in developing the peaceful uses of atomic energy; report of the United States of America."

Lodge said that the refusal of the Soviet Union to join the plan could not be allowed to prevent the world from sharing its benefits.

He said there probably is no single matter before the Assembly that promises more constructive benefits for mankind. His item indicates, however, the United States will merely report to the U. N. and will carefully refrain from giving the U. N. a voice in creating an atomic agency.

Selwyn Lloyd, Britain, joined Lodge, saying Britain fully supported the American item and would take part in the plan.

Vishinsky then said the Soviet Union has not now and never has rejected the plan. Vishinsky asked why was it necessary to poison good will by "such an inaccuracy." He said he would state the Soviet position later but he wanted it put before the Assembly.

There were hints Vishinsky might speak Monday in the Assembly on the general world situation.

Senate To Reconvene After Election

Spring Series Of A-Tests Assigned To Nevada Site; New Weapon Designs Seen

WASHINGTON, Sept. 24 (AP)—Preparations are under way for a 1955 spring series of atomic explosions at the Nevada proving grounds, presumably to test out improved and possibly entirely new designs of nuclear weapons for battlefield use.

The Atomic Energy Commission started sending out warnings today to officials, stockmen and others in southern Nevada and southwestern Utah. They were notified:

That there will be a series of tests conducted at the continental atomic proving ground, in the area west of Las Vegas, beginning probably about mid-February.

While the announcement made no reference to types of atomic materials to be tested, the expectation is that they will be nuclear fission rather than the powerful fusion or H-bomb types.

Hydrogen bomb tests have been confined exclusively to the mid-Pacific proving grounds in the Marshall Islands group.

Officials have spoken recently of the "constant improvement of our weapon posture," and of the growing variety of all types of atomic weapons. The creation of each new design or substantial change in the existing design of a nuclear bomb, guided missile warhead or artillery shell requires an actual full-scale proving of the theories developed in the laboratory.

The brief announcement said the 1955 series "will conform generally with those previously conducted in Nevada, including participation and support by the Department of Defense and Federal Civil Defense Administration."

The last tests in Nevada were in the spring and early summer of 1953.

One of those tests included an "open" demonstration at which civil defense experts and news, radio and television reporters were present.

Early Bird Gunmen Wait Out Time Mechanism Of Vault, Then Rob Bank Of $100,000

MOUNT VERNON, N. Y., Sept. 24 (AP)—Two early bird gunmen waited out the time mechanism of a bank vault today, then stole $100,000.

It took them nearly 30 minutes—with the enforced help of arriving employees—to open the double-combination vault. But they engineered the morning robbery of the Fulton Trust Co. with extreme calmness. One of them even left the bank in the midst of the robbery to get twine to bind employees.

Doctor Held For Illegal Drug Sale

SCRANTON, Pa., Sept. 24 (AP)—Dr. Vincent E. Wall, 29, of nearby Mayfield borough, pleaded innocent tonight to charges of illegal use and sale of narcotics after police arrested him at his office.

Wall posted $5,000 bail at an arraignment before Alderman Patrick J. Boland here.

Wall was picked up in what police called a trap in which marked money was used.

Dist. Atty. Garlon O'Malley said a young woman, a practical nurse whose identity was not disclosed, had been receiving injections of morphine for 7 or 8 days from Dr. Wall illegally.

She visited another doctor here earlier this week because of illness and he found she was a drug addict and notified authorities. O'Malley said the young woman told a story of obtaining drugs from Wall and a trap was set for him.

The woman, carrying marked money from the police, visited Wall's office last night. She received a morphine injection and also obtained other drugs in liquid form.

O'Malley said when the woman left the doctor's office, his detectives entered and found the marked money in Wall's possession. He was placed under arrest.

Below Safe Level

CARMICHAELS, Pa., Sept. 24 (AP)—The bituminous coal industry, which is expected to mine less than 400 million tons in 1954, is at least 100 millions tons below the production level deemed safe for national security, a National Coal Assn. official said tonight.

Cost Of Living Drops To Level Of Year Ago; Food, Furniture, Apparel Prices Decline

By J. W. DAVIS

WASHINGTON, Sept. 24 (AP)—Government figures showed today the cost of living went down 0.2 per cent in August to exactly the same level of a year ago—115 per cent of the 1947-49 average.

The Bureau of Labor Statistics said that, compared with July, 1954, August showed decreases in the cost of food, house furnishings, apparel, transportation and recreation.

Gas and electricity charges were listed as unchanged from the previous month and there were increases for other fuels, housing, rent and medical care.

With more livestock coming to market, there were cuts in the price of every kind of meat, with a 4.5 per cent reduction on bacon, pork chops and leg of lamb leading the list.

A drop of 21 per cent in the cost of tomatoes, one of 17 per cent for sweet potatoes and green beans and one of 27 per cent for peaches were all attributed to adjustments from the prices which had been pushed high during July by drought.

Eggs and milk rose seasonally but even so eggs were selling for about 13 cents a dozen less than a year ago.

In the apparel field, there were reductions from July on men's suits, work gloves, nylon hose and lingerie but children's shoes—considerable item in big families—were higher by about 50 cents a pair. Toys were a little cheaper.

August apparently was a good month to get a television set or radio, with prices on some models

Ike Pledges Full Study Of Labor's Views

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 24 (AP)—President Eisenhower promised anew today that his administration will remove "union-busting" provisions from the Taft-Hartley law and he will give sympathetic consideration to all organized labor's views.

Eisenhower received a politely warm reception from delegates at the American Federation of Labor's annual convention and was interrupted a half dozen times by applause.

While conceding that his administration has so far failed to carry out its pledge to change the Taft-Hartley labor law, Eisenhower said "a solid Democratic vote in the Senate" had been responsible for defeating his amendment proposals.

The President, continuing his campaign to retain Republican control over Congress in this fall's elections, made no direct appeal for AFL support but asked the delegates to carry his "very best wishes" to their union members.

Eisenhower said he realized the AFL, which supported Democratic nominee Adlai Stevenson against him in the 1952 presidential election, disagreed with him on certain policies but he continues to feel friendly toward the working man.

"Now, there is nothing sacred about any views that I hold, and I have never so stated," the President said. "So I just want to say this, the views of this convention will be studied, and thoroughly and sympathetically considered, just as will the views of every other great group of Americans."

After Eisenhower finished speaking, delegates gave him a half-minute standing ovation. AFL President George Meany thanked (Continued on page five)

Communists Barred By Steelworkers

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Sept. 24 (AP)—The CIO United Steel Workers of America barred their doors to Communists today.

In the final action of a topsy-turvy convention, the 3,000 delegates voted to change the union's constitution and make Communists ineligible for membership.

"You will note," said USW President David J. McDonald, "that we are barring from membership Communists and other types of scum."

The constitution also excludes from the union those workers who "actively participate" in the Ku Klux Klan or any "other Fascist, totalitarian, or other subversive organization."

Earlier, the delegates, representing 1,200,000 USW members, approved resolutions urging greater support for the CIO Political Action Committee, a continuing campaign for repeal of the Taft-Hartley labor law and condemnation of the "pro-employer bias exhibited by the new majority of the National Labor Relations Board."

The convention climax came yesterday when McDonald announced he had no intention of leading the steelworkers out of the Congress of Industrial Organizations. Instead of breaking away, he called for an immediate union of all the large labor groups in the nation.

With not much change in the living cost index, the wages of about a million railway workers whose contracts are geared to index changes remained where they were.

The rail workers have had no cost-of-living adjustment now for 15 months. About a million workers in the auto, aircraft and farm equipment industries got a one cent hourly pay raise last month as a result of a three-month index rise that ended with July.

Guaranteed Wage Proposal Preposterous, Says Ching

POCONO MANOR — Cyrus S. Ching, former head of the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service, yesterday called the guaranteed annual wage idea "a preposterous proposal."

At the same time, Ching said he believed that some sort of fund to offset industrial unemployment is a possibility. Such a fund, he said, might be part of provisions in union contracts in the future.

Ching was featured speaker yesterday morning at the 64th annual convention of the Drug, Chemical and Allied Trades Section of the New York Board of Trade at Pocono Manor.

The tall, silver-haired troubleshooter, whose career as a mediator in labor-management disputes spans the past 20 years, expressed doubt that current efforts to unite the CIO and AFL would prove successful.

Even if they did, Ching indicated, the combination would have little effect on industrial relations with labor. Asked to give his opinion of the current move, Ching replied: "So what?"

The CIO-AFL merger received impetus Thursday from steel union president David McDonald. It has previously been endorsed by Walter Reuther and other national labor leaders but no positive steps have been taken as yet.

Calling the past two decades "a 20-year revolution in labor-management relations," Ching criticized both this nation's major labor laws—the Wagner Act and the more recent Taft-Hartley law.

The Wagner Act, he said, provided labor with a license to form or organize unions. This provision was "interpreted by government administrators as an obligation to organize unions in every industry," Ching declared.

The rise of independent unions has caused one of industry's most painful headaches, he indicated.

Independent union relations with management have caused employers to give in to "unreasonable demands" in order to prevent their becoming affiliated with larger, national unions, he said.

The larger union federation, on the other hand, would be more favorable to employers and would present a "basic demand" platform, Ching said.

Turning to the Taft-Hartley law, Ching said it is "not as bad as labor thinks nor as good as management."

One current facet of labor law to which he was opposed, Ching said, is the mandatory vote under government supervision. Union leaders, he said, could obtain the strike vote for use as a threat but could still use it at will.

In general, Ching added, he is opposed to government intervention in labor disputes. "The less government in labor relations we have, the better off labor and industry will be," he said.

Ching urged his listeners to remember that "union leaders represent the attitudes of the employees." Therefore, he said, "the employer has an obligation or a selfish interest in keeping good employee relations."

He called for continuing efforts toward sound business relationships between labor management and told his audience, made up largely of manufacturers, that "less emotionalism would help."

Labor leaders, he said, are holding political jobs, in that they must depend upon the "attitude of their constituents" for their positions. Because of this, Ching said, the leader "cannot play too closely with management." If he does, he added, the employees who make up the body of the union will remove him from office.

Although some concessions must invariably be made in maintaining good labor relations, Ching warned his audience that too many concessions to avoid strikes "can force the company out of a competitive position" in its own market area.

He cited the Studebaker corporation as a prime example of this theory, pointing out that the company, in an effort to keep its labor relations on a constant good level had lost sight of the need to retain its own product in a highly competitive field. Studebaker employees were recently asked—and voted to take after a series of talks—a cut in pay.

"Maintaining the competitive position is the most important thing to both employer and employee," he said.

Called Back To Consider McCarthy Case

WASHINGTON, Sept. 24 (AP)—The Senate will come back to Washington Nov. 8 to consider in the comparative quiet of an after-election session whether to censure Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis.).

The date, which is six days after the Nov. 2 election, was announced by Sen. Knowland (R-Calif.) at his home in Oakland. The Senate's majority leader disclosed it after conferring with Sen. Lyndon Johnson of Texas, the Senate Democratic leader.

Vice President Nixon endorsed the choice of a post-election date.

There had been some agitation to hold the special session earlier, but a number of senators protested that it would interfere with political campaigns if candidates for reelection had to drop everything and return to Washington before Nov. 2. Some were not eager to go on record on the McCarthy issue before balloting day.

Meanwhile, the special committee which held public hearings on the censure charges announced completion of its report and said it will be made public Monday. It is reported to run 60,000 words, divided about evenly between a summary of the evidence and the committee's findings.

Chairman Watkins (R-Utah) said it had been approved unanimously by the six-member committee.

Knowland's statement said: "On Aug. 5 the Vice President, acting on the recommendations of the majority and minority leaders, appointed the select committee pursuant to Senate Resolution 301."

"I have now been advised by the chairman of that committee, Sen. Arthur Watkins, that the committee report and five volumes of the hearings will be available Monday, Sept. 27."

"In order that the members of the Senate might have ample opportunity to study the testimony and the report, to assure that the ultimate action of the Senate would take place in an atmosphere free from pre-election tensions and with the intent that all senators might have adequate advance notice to arrange their schedules so that a full membership would be present when the Senate has the matter under consideration I have recommended on to the minority leader that the Senate be reconvened on Monday, Nov. 8, at 12 o'clock noon. He has informed me that this procedure will be agreeable to him."

Forest Fires Take 3 Lives In California

CHATHSWORTH, Calif., Sept. 24 (AP)—Forest and brush fires in California took a toll of three lives in the northern part of the state today. At least 10 houses burned in the southern section and scores fled before the flames.

Three firefighters from the Folsom Prison honor camp were trapped and died in wind-whipped flames near the small mining town of Sierra City north of Lake Tahoe, in northern California.

Folsom officials tentatively identified the dead as Mel W. Grodzki, 44; Frank W. Burr, 41; and Richard Fierro, 32.

Shifting winds brought the raging forest fire to within a half mile of Sierra City, and its 200 residents were prepared to flee.

Daylight Time Ends On Sunday; Turn Clocks Back

DAYLIGHT Saving Time ends at 2 a.m. Sunday.

When you go to bed tonight, set your clock back one hour. By so doing, you will regain the hour of sleep you lost April 25, when the fast time schedule went into effect for the Summer.

Church services Sunday will be conducted on the Eastern Standard Time schedule.

The ritual of turning timepieces back one hour will occur in 13 states and the District of Columbia. In Massachusetts, Rhode Island, New Hampshire, Maine and part of Vermont, residents will not join the standard timers until the last Sunday in October.

Hughes Denies Budget Slashed Too Sharply

By EDWIN B. HARRISON

WASHINGTON, Sept. 24 (AP)—Budget Director Rowland H. Hughes denied today that the Eisenhower administration plans to swing its economy ax too vigorously in the fiscal year beginning next July 1.

Hughes wrote Sen. Bridges (R-N.D.) that "criticism that we are using the ax too heavily on expenditures" may have resulted from "misconceptions or misinterpretations of financial statements."

He added that President Eisenhower's instructions were to plan spending in line with "fiscal soundness, military and economic strength and the increased welfare of the country."

Beides, chairman of the Senate Appropriations Committee and a candidate for reelection, had written Hughes that he was "somewhat disturbed to see varying but critical" news on the recently revised budget for the current fiscal year, which began July 1.

These upped the red ink estimates for the current fiscal year by 1 1/2 billion dollars to a total deficit of 4 1/2 billion and also lowered estimates on government receipts.

Bridges said some had interpreted this as an administration decision for more nondefense spending, especially on a "housing program designed to keep the whole industry booming."

Viet Nam Premier Installs New Cabinet In Bold Move

Saigon, Indochina, Sept. 24 (AP)—Premier Ngo Dinh Diem installed a new Cabinet today in a bold move to save his Viet Nam government, but he still sat on a powder keg which could explode any minute.

For the first time Diem brought into the Cabinet representatives of the powerful Cao Dai and Hoa Hao religious sects—including commanders of sizable armies maintained by the anti-Communist sects—to bolster his hand in his struggle for power with the South Viet Nam army chief of staff, Gen. Nguyen Van Hinh.

Snow Maroons 30 Tourists, Two Technicians

DENVER, Sept. 24 (AP)—Colorado's high mountain areas received their first snow of the fall season and the heavy clouds brought rain along the lower elevations immediately east of the Rockies.

Two Denver University technicians—James Hurlbut and Robert Bair—were marooned atop 14,260-foot Mt. Evans, west of Denver, by a 10-inch snowfall which closed the highway up the peak for the season.

Thirty tourists were trapped in a sight-seeing bus for 12 hours by drifts that piled over the Mt. Evans road—the world's highest highway—a mile from the summit of the peak. They were rescued by State Highway Department snowplows, after spending the night in the summit shelter house.

The U. S. Weather Bureau here reported the snow was general along the Continental Divide.

Severe Smog Attack

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 24 (AP)—One of the worst smog attacks of the year had citizens coughing and wiping their eyes today and civic officials said some workers felt so bad they went home.

Sunday School Lesson

Scripture—Matthew 5:13-16; John 1:4-14; Acts 4:13-20; 8:14-26; 11:1-18; 13:1-14.

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL
SO MUCH material is assigned to this lesson, the last of this series, that we must condense it a good deal.

The first verses of the lesson, taken from Matthew, tell us of Jesus after He had delivered the Beatitudes in the Sermon on the Mount, probably in Galilee. Here He is talking to His own followers and disciples. He tells them that they are the salt of the earth, but, He says, "if the salt have lost its savor, wherewith shall it be salted? it is thenceforth good for nothing but to be cast out."

By its distinctive chemical nature salt not only seasons our food so that it is more palatable, but it often retards corruption in foods. He might have meant that the world is corrupt and corrupting. The work of the Christians is to exert their influence in society because their normal life is under the control of the Holy Spirit. It might also have been a reminder that if they became half-hearted in their work of redemption, it would be worthless.

Then Christ told these men, "Ye are the light of the world. A city set upon a hill cannot be hid. Neither do men light a candle and put it under a bushel, but on a candlestick; and it giveth light unto all that are in the house."

"Let your light so shine before men, that they may see your good works, and glorify your Father which is in heaven."

This does not mean that we should always be talking about the good we have done or are about to do, but that we should always be ready to do good and help others wherever there is need, and by our words and works show all those we meet what the life of a real Christian can be, so that they may glorify God.

Very briefly we might mention John the Baptist's teaching of the baptism of Jesus and what happened. One who heard John speak was Andrew. He went to find his brother, Simon Peter, and brought him to Jesus—Peter, who afterwards became the head of the church in Jerusalem!

You will remember the story of Peter and John, that after they had received the Holy Ghost, they healed a man who had been lame since birth. After they were thrown into prison for a night, but released because the fact of the miracle was a fact, and the temple authorities could not deny it. Next morning the two apostles were brought before the high priest and others, and asked by what power or in whose name they healed the man. Peter told them at once that it was Jesus of Nazareth, whom they had crucified.

What should the high priests

The Women's Auxiliary has purchased a new carpet for the sanctuary and it is to be on the floor before the centennial meetings, Oct. 15, 16 and 17.

Promotion Exercises To Be Held Sunday Morning At East Borough Sunday School

CARL T. SECOR, Superintendent of the church school of the East Stroudsburg Methodist Church, announces that Sunday, at 9:50 a. m., all departments of the church school—nursery through 12th grade in the senior department, will engage in the annual promotion day exercises. A closely graded school is maintained by the church, with at least one class for every grade group.

The advance in school grading underlies the yearly promotion. More than 400 children and young people will be involved in promotion this year.

At 11 a. m., the pastor, Rev. Harold C. Eaton, has planned a worship service of dedication that will honor all officers and teachers of the school. His text is a part of Christ's commission to his disciples as recorded in Matthew's gospel, "Go—Teach." The sermon is specifically concerned with the importance of Christian education and character building. It is the conviction of the church that righteousness, peace and brotherhood cannot be achieved apart from the educative process.

The altar choir will sing an anthem. The kindergarten mothers during the morning worship are Mrs. David Lee, Mrs. David Crane and Mrs. James Brands. The organization of a "crib" nursery is being effected for the benefit of mothers of infants and its first session will be held this Sunday morning. Flowers are provided by the altar guild of the W.S.C.

"Hurricane Behavior" is the title of the sermon by the pastor to-morrow night. Miss Jane Ann Marshall is the soloist with Mr. Michel-felder at the console and Dr. Corson leading the congregational hymn sing.

East Borough Presbyterians To Observe Rally Day Sunday

Mrs. Jesse Flory is to present a story to the children and their parents entitled "The Beginning Of The First Christian Church."

The spirit of Rally Day will later be carried over into the sanctuary during the hour of worship. A service of commitment has been prepared for each worshiper in behalf of the educational program of the church.

Rev. F. A. Wingerter has been presenting a series of sermons. His third discourse is entitled "Midnight Worship." It is based upon the 62nd verse of the 119th Psalm:—"At Midnight, I will rise to praise thee."

CAT
HE

Will you help Johnny with his homework?
Of course! You are willing and eager to help. If Johnny is to be happy and make a real contribution in life, he must have every educational advantage possible. You want to prepare him.
But what about Johnny's church school homework? To prepare Johnny for life, he must have more than a head full of history and geography and multiplication tables. Johnny must have a heart full of love and a soul dedicated to God. To find purpose and meaning in life, Johnny must have faith, not just fact and figures. Bring Johnny to Church School and Church every Sunday.
Afterwards, help with his papers and talk over the lessons. Make his church school homework as much your responsibility as his public school homework. Help Johnny prepare for victorious, Christian living!

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . .
ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

A Commie Weapon

Reports of drug addiction among American GI's in Korea and Japan are disturbing. They crop up from time to time.

The Chinese and North Korean Commies, we are told, are "pushing" drugs. They do so for two reasons: to get dollar exchange and to debauch the people of the free nations.

No one will question that such nasty business is right down the Commies' alley. They're experts at that kind of stuff.

A sorry feature is that investigations indicate an increase in GI drug traffic in the last two years. A report to the Senate Foreign Relations committee, for example, said cases involving military personnel rose from 462 in 1952 to 937 in 1953.

Such reports can be interpreted two ways. First, that there has been an increase; and, second, that the armed forces are doing a better policing job.

We hope the second interpretation is the correct one. In either event, it is well that Assistant Defense Secretary Frank S. Berry has gone to Korea and Japan to investigate the reports.

This Matter of Time

Experts, who go poking around into such things, say the Earth is a lot older than we thought.

The old Earth has been around for 4,200,000,000 years, give or take a few million, these top geophysicists say. Been able to pin it down, they add, because of scientific developments in this atomic age. Now they can take a pile of old lead ore, measure its radioactive factors, and calculate from this radioactivity how long it has been around.

It's sort of nice to know that atomic accuracy can be applied to the Earth's past. But what we really want to know is: How about its future?

Death in the Country

Contrary to the beliefs of many, there are about two and a half times more people killed on rural highways than on city streets.

The reason, according to safety experts, is simple—excessive speed. City traffic is so dense that it's almost impossible to get a car moving at breakneck speed.

But on the long stretches of country roads, the speed kings can and do let 'er go. That will continue to be the case until drivers prefer to get where they are going in one piece and alive, rather than set a speed record.

George Sokolsky Says...

Pursuit Of Doctrinaire Free Trade Without Regard To Employment Bad

Those who favor free trade have many arguments which sound logical but they have to answer the fact that a number of marginal industries in the United States cannot compete in the American market against goods produced by low wages, often with a government subsidy, sometimes out of funds given to such a government by the American taxpayer. If there is to be free trade, there should be no subsidies, no dumping and no wage differentials.

I have seen it said that if American goods cannot be made so that they can compete with goods from European and Asiatic countries, we ought not to make that particular commodity. We ought to abandon that industry. Paul Hoffman once wrote a book supporting some such concept. But how are we to absorb the labor involved in such abandoned industries? Those laborers are American citizens who desire to earn a living the same as automobile and steel workers. They do not want to be on relief. They do not choose to be unemployed so that some Europeans can work.

Now the bicycle industry is adding its voice to the watch, the ceramic and the electrical equipment industries. The bicycle industry says that it is going broke in competition with European bicycles which are flooding the American market. They show that in 1949, foreign bicycles sold in this market amounted to 15,757 and that for the first six months of 1954, these sales have increased to 299,314. In 1953, 503,659 foreign-made bicycles were imported into the United States. In 1953, the sales amounted to about 23 percent of the total American market; in 1954, it shows 40 percent during the first six months.

The Bicycle Institute of America, obviously a public relations organization, says in its pamphlet:

"In the record-breaking year of 1948, 2,761,437 American bikes were sold in this country. Despite a heavy demand for anything on wheels, it is worth noting that only 16,874 foreign lightweight bikes were sold."

"Suddenly, however, import sales jumped to 66,289 in 1950—and since then have not stopped their upward trend. Why did this change occur? For no other reason than that duty rates on imported bikes were cut drastically to as low as 7½ percent in 1948, followed by the British devaluation of their currency in 1949, resulting in the equivalent of another 30% duty cut.

"As a result, the prices of foreign bikes dropped sharply. It was these prices, beyond our control, that broke down sales resistance in many quarters."

These statements should not be discounted because they are self-serving. Our nation consists of a large number of groups of self-interest, each of which is important because it employs workers, uses raw materials, pays taxes and keeps the economic wheels turning. If enough of these groups have to shut down their plants, unemployment can grow to disastrous dimensions.

One of the answers to this is that unless we let in large quantities of foreign-made goods, it will be impossible for us to export our production. This is true and therefore we face a plugging problem for which no rule-of-thumb answer will suffice. Chas. P. Taft, who is doing public relations work for the free-traders, adopts a strictly doctrinaire position: Free trade is sound in theoretical economics; therefore free trade should be pursued.

This formula does not solve our problem of maintaining existing industries in this country or full employment. The bicycle industry in the United States is 77 years old, has survived wars and depressions but is now in real peril. The European bicycle industry, employing cheaper labor and often getting government subsidies, can produce exactly the same bike as an American manufacturer can produce but at a cheaper price. In our country, than an American bike can be sold for. Why buy an American bike?

What the free-traders fail to realize is that if limitless imports produce unemployment in this country the politicians will move in to speak for their constituents. Unemployment was a factor in the Maine election. The politicians could go to the other extreme of producing a wholly un-economic tariff on the high side.

In a word, the pursuit of doctrinaire free trade, without regard to actual conditions of employment in the United States, is a very grave danger at this time.

Coordination and Written Orders May Bring Demand For Probe.

(They consult their watches and discover they should consult calendars. Six weeks have elapsed. Concord and Lexington have met with disaster. Revere's horse has died. Nobody knows who has the lanterns, but it is suspected the opposition politicians have them.)

Revere (sadly) — Well, this means demand for our resignations and one of those big investigations... one if my executive session, two if by public hearing!

With both the Republicans and Democrats taking a stand for legalized bingo in the New York State election, do you suppose the candidates will appear on the machines as "Bingo" Ives and "Jackpot" Harriman? ... The fellow who for years has been camping outside the Yankee Stadium for a week before the series has presumably turned in his crate, sublet his blanket and cancelled his contract for a thermos bottle...

Detective Jim McShane, despite the Marciano umbrella incident, will not, we understand, accept offers to appear in a revival of "Rain"... Add smiles: He looked as beat up as if he had been trying to co-exist.

BARTENDER'S GUIDE

Looking At Life

—by Erich Brandeis

Experience, Wisdom Come After Age Of 24 Zenith

According to Cholly Knickerbocker, Geraldine Farrar, the famous opera singer of another age, has decided to donate all her love letters, correspondence and diaries to the Library of Congress.

He says that Farrar was once the "epitome of all opera singers, gifted with one of the world's greatest voices, to go with her breathtaking beauty and regal bearing. She had proposals from princelings, dukes, barons and earls, not to mention countless you-marry-me's from assorted millionaires both here and in Europe."

She has kept all her love letters and, had she published them, could have made a fortune. But she did not—and now the Library of Congress, if it will accept the gift, is going to get it.

According to public records, Geraldine Farrar is now 72. Consequently, many of those princelings and millionaires, who wrote her passionate letters 40 or 50 years ago, have probably gone to their ancestors by now.

But those who are still alive, probably have long since outlived their impetuosity, long settled for much less glamorous women than the Geraldine Farrar of the very early part of this century—and, perhaps, have been much the happier for it.

Geraldine was once one of my favorites. If she had been 20 years younger when I was a 24 or 25, I would probably have proposed to her myself.

And just imagine—one of my writings might now go into the Library of Congress, which one of my columns never will.

It may not be quite apropos in connection with so exalted a subject as the previous one, to mention the fact that three eminent psychologists, at the opening session of the annual convention of the American Psychological Association, reported to the 4,000 members assembled that the peak of man's intellectual growth is reached between the ages of 20 and 24.

At the latter age he begins to decline and his mind to deteriorate—the deterioration speeding up with every additional year.

The scientists based their facts on the study of about 6,000 persons, mostly prisoners. They found that the less education a man has the greater the decline.

(They also found that there really isn't any more sickness among 90-year-olds than among 60-year-olds and that probably the oldest working-age group in this country is the farmer.)

I checked with my doctor on this "deterioration after 24." He confirmed it. He told me that both mental and physical decline begins at about that age, but there is a redeeming feature about this whole discouraging business.

While both the mind and the body reach their zenith at about 24, the mind keeps on developing, while not growing, and experience and wisdom take the place of virile youth.

Thus while, perhaps, those fellows who wrote love letters to Geraldine Farrar at 40 or 50 or 60, might have been pretty far advanced in mental deterioration, they nevertheless might have been pretty darn important and useful members of society.

Pretty complicated, isn't it?

Try and Stop Me

—by Bennet Cerf

"Slamming Sammy" Snead, one of the all-time greats of golfdom, is an old buddy of another outstanding athlete, Ted Williams, outfielder of the Boston Red Sox. Ted invited Sam to sit on the Red Sox bench for a big game against the New York Yankees, led his teammates in needing the golf star. Baseball, was the tenor of the remarks, was a man's game; tough, demanding and complex. "Any old goof could hit a defenseless golf ball." But what about connecting with a baseball that was propelled toward the plate at blinding speed by a smart, tricky pitcher? Snead took all the ribbing with perfect good nature, finally drawled, "Maybe all you say is true, but there's one thing in golf: when we hit a foul ball, we've gotta get out there and play it."

In the very middle of an impenetrable Appalachian forest, avers Harry Herachfeld, an explorer came upon a mighty oak with these words carved up on it: "I was the first person to travel through these wilds. Daniel Boone." Directly underneath, however, was inscribed, "That's what you think! Eleanor Roosevelt."

Gillette-Martin Race For Senate From Iowa Close

Robert S. Allen is on vacation. During his absence, his column for today is on the remarkable senatorial race taking place in Iowa. It is written by John M. Henry, one of the ablest and best known newspapermen, authors and horsemen in that state. Two new books just published by him are AS KING SAW HIM, a unique collection of the drawings of the famous cartoonist J. S. Harting, and THE MOUNTED DRILL TEAM, a detailed account of how to organize, train and run such organizations.

By JOHN M. HENRY

Des Moines, Ia., September 25—Whether Republican - dominated Iowa will defeat Democratic Senator Guy Gillette, and thus give President Eisenhower an additional seat in the crucial U. S. Senate, will depend on several pluses for Gillette and several minuses for his Republican opponent, Representative Thomas E. Martin.

That Gillette should continue winning elections in heavily Republican Iowa has been one of the oddities of politics of the Hawkeye State. His reputation as a vote-getter is now an asset for him, Iowans liking to be with a winner the same as the voters of any of the other 47 states.

Gillette will get the full Democratic vote. There are no disagreements over philosophy or organization among them that will affect him to any degree.

That is not true as regards Martin.

Otherwise, it would all be over and Martin would be the winner, because many more Iowans usually vote Republican than they do Democratic. Gillette must get a lot of Republican votes to win. Whether he gets them because of his own appeal, or Martin's lack of appeal, or because of both of these factors, doesn't matter in the end. The big point is that Gillette gets them.

He has a reputation of being "more Republican than Democrats," which he got—earned or not—when President Roosevelt tried to purge him after he opposed the attempt to pack the Supreme Court. As Willard Archie, politically-astute publisher of the Shenandoah, Iowa, Sentinel, wrote, "Guy will now try to look like a Republican until after the November elections."

Also the Senator is adept at conjuring up an issue that operates as a potent vote-getter for a few months—until after election, that is. Example: His departure from his text at the Democratic State convention in July, to declare he was against more foreign aid ("pouring money down a rat-hole" was his phrase), and then adding, "especially when this Administration cannot find money enough for an adequate farm program."

The issue is squarely drawn between Gillette and Martin on the farm problem. Gillette has voted regularly for rigid 90 percent supports for basic farm commodities, and Martin has voted for the Administration's flexible support policy. How much that means only November will tell.

The recent vote by Iowa's wheat farmers is pointed out by some political savants as a straw-in-the-wind. However, it is pertinent to point out that Iowa doesn't have many wheat farmers—but those who are did vote nine to one in the spring for controls, whereas a few years back the margin was only three to one.

But Iowa farmers have been voting both for controls and for Republicans with two hands for more than a decade now.

Yet, there is the significant poll of Wallace's Farmer. In the poll of this widely-respected magazine Gillette got the same percentage for Senator that the Republican nominee for Governor received. The figures were: For Senator: Martin, 39; Gillette, 51; undecided, 10. For Governor: Hoegh (Republican), 51; Herring, 39; undecided, 10.

Representative Martin has been elected in his district for many years, usually by big majorities. But he was not well known over the state. When he decided to run for the Senate, some eight months before the primary election, he began to stump the eighty-odd counties. At that time it was believed there would be many other entries into the contest, among them Governor W. S. Beardsley. So for most of a year Martin worked hard. He has tremendous physique, and he needed it. Possibly 75 percent of his campaign expenditures were for airplane transportation between Washington and Iowa. Much of the time he kept his car in the public lot at the Des Moines airport, ready to jump into when he arrived in late afternoon from Washington.

Martin kept up his hard campaigning right up to the final filing date, and lo and behold, he had no opponents. That was not because Martin had campaigned so well that all the other aspirants were afraid of him. The others shied away because they feared that Governor Beardsley would get the 55 to 40 percent of the vote he usually has commanded and the addition of other candidates would split the ballot so he would win.

Beardsley further confounded the situation by announcing shortly before the filing deadline that he would not be a candidate. A half dozen prospects hurriedly surveyed the outlook. Had there been time for complete huddling and compromising—and maybe promising—possibly there would have been another candidate. But none of the possibilities wanted to enter at that late date, unless assured of being the only one against Martin. And there wasn't time to work out such an agreement.

Industrial Show One Of Highlights Of Pennsylvania Week

Many Local Plants To Be Represented

LEADING industries located in the Pocono Mountain area have signed up for the Industrial Show which promises to be the foundation of this year's Pennsylvania Week. The exposition will open on Monday night, Oct. 11 and will run until Thursday night, Oct. 14.

The entire 12,200-square-foot area of the Penn-Stroud Garage has been made available to the Pennsylvania Week Exposition Committee. Harold Swenson, Chamber of Commerce secretary reported. This same area was utilized by the Vacation Bureau for its Hotel Show this Spring and drew record-breaking crowds. It is expected that over 35 firms will display their products and operate exhibits.

Among the industries to be represented at the industrial fair are Benson Corp., Worthington Mower and Line Material, Swenson, disclosed. In addition to Pennsylvania Power and Light Co. and the Citizens Gas Co., there will be displays by LaBar's Nursery, Heico Co., Tru-Matic Tool and Manufacturing Co. and the Pocono Record.

Currently being scheduled are organized visits to the exposition that will include all the pupils of the schools in the county. Following the visit of the show the classes will be taken on a guided tour of one of the local plants in order to see the actual production of the products displayed, Swenson said.

Bank Bandits Get $100,000

before the mechanism automatically went into action to swing the vault open.

Meanwhile, two men tellers arrived for work and the bandits bound them up as they had Tichenor and Mrs. Beebe. The men were placed on the floor, Mrs. Beebe on a couch. All were assured they wouldn't be hurt if they kept quiet.

With the vault finally open, the bandits used adding machine covers as bags into which they scooped cash. Then they fled, apparently in a waiting automobile. The money was on hand in the bank for payrolls.

They had scarcely left when Tichenor managed to roll over to a floor button with which he sounded an alarm to police headquarters.

Patrolman John Bradley rushed for his car at the alarm and headed for the bank. His car and another collided a few blocks away and he was taken to a hospital.

One of the robbers was described as about 30, short and stocky, wearing a green "Eisenhower" jacket and a wide-brimmed brown felt hat.

The other was about 20, of medium height, slender, and wearing a light tan jacket.

12 Chest Agencies Benefit Through Contributions To Monroe County Campaign

WHEN THE COMMUNITY CHEST drive opens officially Monday you will be asked to give your fair share toward maintenance of 12 all-important community agencies.

Each of these agencies contributes, in its own way, to the welfare of your entire community—not just to a select few.

The agencies are these:

The Boy Scouts, with troops in all areas of Monroe County sponsored by churches, fire companies and other civic-minded groups; working for the betterment of your son or his playmates so that they, in turn, will be trained to work for a better community and a finer world.

The Child Guidance Center, a new agency in which interest is centered primarily on the disturbed child who is unable to fit into the necessary routine of his everyday life. Many times Child Guidance must work not only with the child, but with his parents in order to find the root of his attitudes.

The Child Health Committee, in which volunteer, community-minded board members (as in all other Chest-agency cases) attempt to provide a "watchdog" agency to protect the health of children in every area of the county.

Children's Aid Society, which works with children from broken homes, whose parents have divorced or have died. The object—and it has been a successful one for many years—is to provide new "foster" homes for these children, giving them a chance for a normal, healthy childhood.

Monroe County Crippled Children and Adults Association, as its name says, is interested in rehabilitating those unfortunate children and grown ups whose lives have been crippled by crippling diseases.

Monroe County General Hospital, where the welfare of all community residents, regardless of ability to pay, receives prompt attention every day throughout the year.

The Girl Scouts, a Scouting program operated on a full-scale for girls just as the Boy Scouts serve the boys in your community. Girl Scout troops and Brownie organizations exist in nearly every Monroe County district. And Scouting leaders will open up more troops just as soon as they are able to find leaders to work with them.

Pennsylvania Citizen's Association, which works on the State level checking welfare laws and new regulations governing welfare work in the Commonwealth.

Public Health Nursing, an organization which works to help both old and young patients help themselves. Representatives of PHN assist bed-ridden patients by teaching them how to care for themselves and helps family members by instructing them in the proper care of a patient.

Salvation Army, an outstanding organization in the field of youth service, plans activities for both boys and girls to keep their time occupied and help them develop into useful citizens.

United Defense Fund—this is your contribution to the welfare of millions of U. S. servicemen, including those from Monroe County.

YMCA, another of your community's youth service organizations, which, through planning activities in its varied groups attempts to provide entertainment, sports and spiritual guidance in everyday life.

Each of these agencies asks—and needs—your help in the current Community Chest campaign. When you give to the Chest you are giving to 12 agencies in one drive.

Remember your role in your own community Monday when the Community Chest drive begins. Figure out how much you can give now and give during the Chest's annual drive.

Concert Series Member Drive Closes Today

MUSIC DEVOTEES in the Poconos have one day—today—to enroll for the 1954-55 Pocono Community series. Memberships may be obtained at concert headquarters in the Penn Stroud Hotel.

With some of the top concert features selected, the number of memberships will govern the control the remainder of the musicians to be signed for the season.

Volunteer canvassers are soliciting. Prospective members not contacted are invited to subscribe at headquarters. Memberships will be received there until 5 p.m. today.

Only admission to membership after that hour will be offered to new people moving into the region, and those who were out of town during the campaign week.

The rates of $6 for adults and $3 for students covers a minimum of four concerts. One of the features of the plan is an arrangement for reciprocal membership privilege with other cities whereby local members may attend community concerts in other cities at no additional cost.

There are 55 cities in the state which have community concert plans involving the reciprocal membership. Close to Stroudsburg are Easton, Allentown, Bethlehem, Hazleton, Hattboro, Lansford, Norristown, Mt. Carmel, Pottsville and Port Jervis, N. Y.

Gardner, Fetscher Trials Scheduled Monday; Getts To Appear For Sentencing

TRIAL COURT will open Monday morning at 9 in Monroe County Courthouse.

Among cases to be considered are the following, unless a guilty plea is entered prior to opening of court.

Commonwealth vs. East Gardner: Gardner is charged with attempting to steal antiques from the George L. Madison summer home, East Stroudsburg. He is a 32-year-old Canadensis resort worker. The prosecutor is Homer Jones, State trooper from the Mount Pocono sub-station.

Commonwealth vs. Elizabeth Fetscher: Mrs. Fetscher, an Effort housewife, is charged with obstructing the sheriff in the serving of a legal process.

District Attorney Elmer Christine said yesterday that attorneys for Robert J. Getts, 22, of Allentown, had notified him that their motion for a new trial was being dropped. Christine said Getts would appear for sentencing Monday.

Getts was convicted of involuntary manslaughter by a jury on Feb. 9, this year. The charge grew out of an auto accident in April, 1953 on Route 611 near Tobyhanna Signal Depot in which Getts' car collided head-on with another vehicle.

Mrs. Asa English, 70, of Gouldsboro, a passenger in the second car, was killed in the accident. In returning a verdict of guilty the February jury recommended clemency.

Getts' attorney, Leo Achtermann, based his motion for a new trial on alleged imperfections in the record.

Delaware Authorities Order Opening Of Milford School

MILFORD, Del., Sept. 24 (AP)—Gov. J. Caleb Boggs today issued a call for citizens' cooperation in reopening Milford High School Monday to both Negro and white children, warning that "law and order will be preserved."

The governor spoke out in a taut situation in this southeastern Delaware community over the first admittance of Negro pupils to the town's only high school.

"I must insist that no disorders, threats or violence take place," Boggs said in a statement issued at the state capital in nearby Dover. "I call upon every citizen, regardless of his personal views, to see that law and order and calmness prevail."

Boggs issued his statement following a decision by the state Board of Education to operate Milford schools, starting Monday, without racial segregation. The state board acted after the Milford school directors resigned en masse last night. Both state and local boards favored compliance with the U. S. Supreme Court ruling forbidding racial segregation in public schools.

"I must say frankly that law and order will be preserved under the law and the American way," Boggs said. "I know that the citizens of Milford and Delaware will have it no other way."

As the governor made his appeal for cooperation there were reports that the Delaware National Guard in Milford might be alerted to stand by in case of trouble.

There also were reports that opponents of integration were planning a mass meeting to consider their next step.

An attempt by the local board to open the former all-white high school, in this town of 5,700 population, to both Negroes and white pupils was halted earlier this week after threats of violence were made.

Gov. Boggs asked all organizations in the school district and other districts sending pupils to the Milford school to call special meetings "so that I or other persons available may meet and discuss calmly and fully the situation..."

"This is important in upholding law and order and the dignity of the state and its citizens," Gov. Boggs said.

Milford's two schools — an all-Negro elementary school and the formerly all-white combination elementary and high school — opened Sept. 7 with 11 Negro pupils and 686 white pupils for the high school classes. A protest meeting which no one acknowledges having called, resulted in closing of both schools Monday. The local school board canceled a plan to reopen Tuesday after receiving threats there would be violence.

The better you know America, the better the future looks!

Great changes are taking place in America today. And each one of these changes brings with it an equally great opportunity for all of us—businessmen and farmers, factory workers, office workers and housewives. Here are just a few of the changes that, directly or indirectly, will make your future brighter.

THE CHANGE: America's booming birth rate! Every day we add 11,000 new babies, enough in a month to populate a city the size of Richmond, Va.

THE OPPORTUNITY: Babies are good customers—for baby foods and safety pins right now, eventually for all products that make our factories hum.

THE CHANGE: Even though employment in some areas has fallen off, we still have twenty million more jobs than we had in 1939. And the long-range trend is up.

THE OPPORTUNITY: A flow of purchasing power that keeps our economic machine running smoothly and steadily.

THE CHANGE: Nine times as many Americans now enjoy a $5,000-plus income as in 1941. Savings are at an all-time high.

THE OPPORTUNITY: Saved money is for spending—for homes and automobiles and washing machines and whatever else enterprising businessmen have to sell.

THE CHANGE: By rapidly mechanizing our farms, we have increased agricultural output 52% per man-hour since 1940.

THE OPPORTUNITY: Increased farm production makes the American farmer a better customer for all kinds of merchandise.

THE CHANGE: More and more of our young people attend high school and college; 2,377,000 are in college right now.

THE OPPORTUNITY: An intelligent, informed public is a great assurance of future prosperity and stability for any nation.

THE CHANGE: Our industrial genius increases America's factory output every year. Today, 98% of our work is done by machinery.

Russian Dictators Exercise More Influence With Masses At Home, Abroad By Throwing Off Stalin Bludgeoning Tactics

By WILLIAM L. RYAN

NEW YORK, Sept. 24 (AP)—The collective dictatorship now ruling the Soviet Union has thrown off the old bludgeoning tactics of Stalin. By so doing it has not only gained in popularity with the masses internally, but it has been able to score foreign affairs successes to a point where Americans face new problems and new dangers.

So reports Harrison E. Salisbury, New York Times Moscow correspondent who has just returned to the United States. Salisbury, in extensive travels inside the U.S.S.R., probably saw more of that country than any other foreign reporter. Now free of censorship after five years in Russia, he is reporting his impressions in an exhaustive study running serially in the Times.

He says the death of Stalin gave the Soviet Union a new regime and a new way of doing business, but "the ultimate, long-term objectives of the Soviet Union remain the same under the present administration as they did under Stalin and Lenin."

Summed up, Salisbury's findings run like this:

After the purge of police boss Lavrenty P. Beria, the new post-Stalin regime achieved internal stability to a striking degree, however temporary it might be. This stability also was reflected in its foreign affairs, permitting the collective headed by Premier Georgi Malenkov "to bring the Soviet Union a considerable distance out of the blind alley into which Stalin's stubborn and unchanging policies has led it."

The new regime showed "remarkable mobility and freedom of maneuver that have produced a series of successes at home and abroad," and more seem likely to follow.

Externally, the regime's policy seemed aimed at reducing the possibility of Soviet involvement in war, guarding against overextension of military commitments and steady improvement with European allies of the United States. This was coupled with an effort to convince the world that the Soviet Union now was ruled by "reasonable men" with tangible standards of conduct in foreign as well as domestic affairs.

As for its own allies, Moscow continues its arbitrary bossing around of the European satellites.

*just as under Stalin. But it does not boss China.

"Russians, possibly for some psychological reason, never seem to feel very secure in their alliances. The relationship of equality involved in a great-power association seems to be difficult for them, as was demonstrated in their uneasy wartime alliance with Britain and the United States.

"The relationship between Moscow and Peking is definitely a great power relationship. The Russians make no pretense of bossing the Chinese around. They treat them with great-power courtesy, and negotiations . . . are definitely a two-way matter."

Thus, Russia seems following a traditional diplomatic-reinsurance policy with regard to Peking. As China emerged into the world diplomatic arena, Russia took steps to improve relations with India, to provide a balance just in case Red China became more restive or more independent.

Internally, the new regime tended to subordinate Stalin's stubborn, rigid Communist ideology for a measure of common sense, extend freedoms a bit cautiously and increase some services to the masses. While forced labor and the political police system were maintained, there was some easing of the abuses of both systems.

Even in places like remote Siberia which provided the most horrifying examples of Stalinist repression, there were signs that the new rulers were turning over a new leaf. There was no sign that slave labor or the police system were to be abolished, but "amelioration" was the key word.

The men responsible for this new look are members of a ruling "junta" with Malenkov, party secretary Nikita Khrushchev and Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov at its head. These three as equals, with Malenkov perhaps just a touch the strongest, rule the Soviet Union with the aid of lesser members of a hierarchy.

There have been many rumors circulated abroad of rivalry between Malenkov and Khrushchev, but every foreigner who has met both of them would give odds that Malenkov would whip Khrushchev in any showdown that might come among the top ruling junta.

The exact role of the Soviet Army is unclear, but this is certain: Army influence in day-to-day management of Soviet policy, and particularly the influence of the war hero, Marshal Georgi Zhukov, have increased greatly since Stalin's death. The military may well have played the dominant role in the purge of Beria and the MVD.

For about 78 hours after the death of Stalin in March, 1953, Beria apparently ruled Moscow and Russia through swift movements of MVD troops sealing off the capital. But from that moment Beria's fate was sealed. He was not strong enough to rule alone and too dangerous to remain among the other rulers.

Civil Defense Organizing Police Class

MONROE COUNTY Civil Defense is rapidly going forward with the organization of a police class designed to meet the urgent needs of the boroughs of Stroudsburg and East Stroudsburg and surrounding areas. The course will provide police personnel to supplement existing agencies in time of emergency or whenever the need for such a force becomes apparent.

Stroudsburg applicants are to report to Police Chief James F. McConnell.

The class will be under the direct supervision of a state instructor especially assigned to Monroe County to conduct the work. Instruction will be adapted to meet the training needs of auxiliary fire police, constables, Civil Defense police special police and wardens. Although the course will be given in the Stroudsburgs, announcement of the location has not yet been made.

Judge Fred W. Davis, director of Monroe County Civil Defense, when contacted yesterday said that in the event of natural or military disaster there will be urgent need for a full complement of police reserves.

"Civil Defense police services," he said, "are built on existing police organizations. Although Monroe County has an excellent nucleus of fully trained police to direct law enforcement activities, it is readily apparent that in the event of disaster, or even in the case of our continuing system of Civil Defense alerts that are periodically conducted, Monroe County, and particularly the boroughs of Stroudsburg and East Stroudsburg, do not have nearly enough trained police to meet the added responsibility. Therefore, as many independent police agencies as possible should be ready to participate in county-wide law enforcement and they should be ready to mobilize quickly for all Civil Defense emergencies."

Candidates who would like to take the police course should contact their zone or township Civil Defense directors. In East Stroudsburg candidates should contact Thomas Kistler Sr., in Stroudsburg contact Russell Williams. Auxiliary fire police should contact Marvin Abel in East Stroudsburg. County Civil Defense Headquarters located in the Monroe County Courthouse is also prepared to accept enrollees. Civil Defense directors are urged to submit lists of candidates as soon as possible.

Pick A Place For The Family To Meet In Event Of Atomic Disaster, Says Civil Defense

By A. VERNON DAVIS
Central Press Correspondent

WASHINGTON—Is your family ready for an atomic attack?

Civil Defense has just come out with a new tip for the family in the atomic age: develop a plan for getting together after a disaster. Pre-arrange a place to meet.

The idea is offered in a new Civil Defense technical manual. The "family meeting place," says the manual, should be far enough from the presumed target to assure its survival.

In other words, if you live in a big city such as the nation's capital, select a spot far in the outskirts, away from the target center.

After an attack or similar disaster, it should be understood that all members of the family surviving will go to that spot to meet the others.

Development of a "family communications system" also is proposed.

One member of the family, possibly one living in the country or a non-target area, should be designated as the key member. Right

Naval ROTC Exams Set For Dec. 11

THE NINTH annual competitive examination for high school seniors who desire to attend college and train for careers as naval officers will be held throughout the nation on Dec. 11, the Navy announced yesterday. Applications for the NROTC are now available, but must be received by Nov. 20, the announcement added.

Successful candidates will start their naval careers in colleges and universities across the country in 1955, with substantial financial assistance from the government. After a normal college education, graduates will be commissioned in the Regular Navy or Marine Corps, for active duty with the Fleet throughout the world.

Male citizens of the United States, between the ages of 17 and 21 are eligible to apply for the NROTC aptitude test. Persons who attain a qualifying score will be given the Navy's rigid midshipman physical examination next February. From the pool of qualified candidates remaining in competition, approximately 1,800 young men will be selected for appointment to the NROTC, and the college of their choice.

Students enrolled in the Regular NROTC program will spend their summers on training cruises with the Fleet, and will receive $600 annual retainer pay until commissioned. In addition to the normal college curriculum the midshipmen will study a planned course in Naval science. All tuition, fees, and books will be furnished by the Navy.

This college training program is also open to enlisted men on active duty in the Navy and Marine Corps. Such candidates will be selected under a separate quota established for the services.

Applications are now available at all high schools, colleges, and U. S. Navy recruiting stations, or direct from the Chief of Naval Personnel, Washington 25, D. C.

Dr. David F. Kohn of Mt. Pocono will be out of town from Oct. 7 to Oct. 31.

Soviet View Toward Atomic Pool Unclear

By J.M. ROBERTS
AP News Analyst

Observers were speculating last night whether Soviet Russia intended finally to join President Eisenhower's international atomic pool, or whether she just wanted to bring it into the United Nations where she might have a voice in the whole matter.

There was a possibility that she hoped bringing the matter before the General Assembly might give her an opportunity to get it set up more to her liking than at present, since it has been virtually organized already, putting her in the position, if she does want to get in, of having to join something devised entirely by others.

Since he wanted the vote placing the pool on the Assembly agenda made unanimous, Vishinsky may also have had in the back of his mind that such action would make it very difficult for the United States to go ahead with the organization outside the U.N., as she has been doing, despite Secretary Dulles' suggestion Thursday that the world organization sponsor a conference on the subject soon.

The United States has expressed the fear that if the pool were affiliated with the U.N., Russia would manage to interfere with its operations. This was when officials considered Russian membership much more remote than it appears today.

The fact is, however, that the Assembly can set up such special agencies in any manner it wishes. It can require reports or it can bypass them. It can accept the association of agencies already formed — as it did in the case of the Postal Union and many others — or it can organize them itself.

In any case an agency can be left free to operate without interference from U.N. members who do not join it, as Russia has not joined many of the special agencies already existing.

To have Russia come in should fit American policy regardless of whether she does so with the intent of cooperation or obstruction. There need be no vetoes, since the pool will not deal with atomic matters involving national security, but only with peaceful uses.

If Russia should come in merely for the purpose of obstructing a program which has as a chief objective the development of atomic power for underdeveloped nations, she would merely be cutting her own propaganda throat.

If, on the other hand, she displayed a spirit of cooperation, it would foster another of the original ideas behind the project — that if an East-West working agreement could ever be established in one field, it might open up others.

Here is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a magical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 2. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.

Just Between Us

—By Bobby Westbrook

When the social news starts spreading over two pages then you know that Autumn has officially arrived. To a dispassionate observer, we must look very much like an ant hill stirred by a stick.

In all the hurly-burly, some ants seem much busier than others and some of them are carrying not just one but a lot of burdens. With the Community Concert campaign over today and the Community Chest due to start next week, many of the lady ants will have a path worn between all the houses in their neighborhoods.

Ora Levering, of course, has practically moved to Community Chest headquarters at the Penn-Stroud. Last year she lost her voice for I don't know how long afterwards.

Sig Butler will need that rest she stored up during her vacation in Milford, Del. (When she left every asked "Where's Milford?" By the time she got back everybody'd be reading about it on the front pages of every newspaper, practically, because of that segregation battle).

Anyway, during her absence they elected her president of Ann Logan, all the Skitter's bowling cards started coming in, plus her chores as president-elect of the Medical Auxiliary and a new director on Children's Aid.

Henri Metzgar spent the first morning home from her trip to New York on the telephone but steady. She not only had Community Concert memberships to worry about but also the Music Parents big supper on Monday, (the very night of the Chest kickoff dinner, you might know) and a birthday supper and football game coming up.

And at 6:30 this morning—a.m. that is—the Girl Scout leaders met at Ninth and Main where they had sort of a little fort of blanket rolls and weekend bags for their training weekend at Archbald. Toujours gai, not?

Miss Newhart Is Bride Of Ron Whitman

Miss Justine Newhart, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Newhart of Elm Street, East Stroudsburg, was married last night at 7:30 to Ronald Whitman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Marlin R. Whitman, of Ransberry Ave., in St. John's Lutheran Church in Stroudsburg.

Rev. P. N. Wohlsein, pastor, performed the ceremony. Mrs. Betsy Ann Newhart, sister-in-law of the bride, served as her matron of honor, and Thomas Tredennick was best man.

The bride wore a dress of periwinkle blue velvet with a white velvet hat and white accessories. Her corsage was of white roses. The matron of honor wore a pink taffeta dress with black accessories and a corsage of pink roses.

The bride's mother wore a dress of peacock blue with black accessories and a corsage of pink flowers. The bridegroom's mother wore a Fall suit, and also had a corsage of pink flowers.

Following the ceremony, a reception for about 50 guests was held at the home of the bride's parents. The candle-lit table had a tiered wedding cake, and flowers.

The bride was graduated from East Stroudsburg High School in 1950 and attended Churchman's Business College in Easton. The bridegroom was graduated from East Stroudsburg High in 1952 and is employed at the Art Metal Co., East Stroudsburg.

After they return from their wedding trip, they will make their home for the present with the bride's parents, on Elm Street.

Around The Stroudsburgs

Mr. and Mrs. Seldon W. Ostrom of New Rochelle were guests this week of Mr. Ostrom's brother and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Merle Ostrom, in Pocono Park.

Mr. and Mrs. Merle Stevens took their daughter, Betsy to New York yesterday where she enrolled for Colorado where she will attend school this winter.

Dr. and Mrs. T. I. Metzgar, Club Court, have returned from New York City where Dr. Metzgar attended a conference of physicians specializing in eye, ear, nose and throat.

Arlington W. Williams has returned from driving his daughter, Janice to Mount Holyoke College, Massachusetts, where she is in her senior year. Miss Ann Stevenson, also a senior, has returned to Mt. Holyoke.

Diamonds are a girl's best friend, we've been told, and in this case the sentiment is true even though the diamonds are of geometric variety, banded on all sides by heavy black and gold cording. You'll find these on a colorful, completely washable, pre-shrunk Fruit of the Loom rug, selling at 298 in our floor coverings department.

If I were to name my favorite colors, I'd mention the soft, baby pink first, with the dusty rose and deep rose tying for second place. But all of them are velvet soft, rainbow bright, and as easily washed as an old dust cloth. The other shades include aqua, a deep powder blue, red, wine, gray and hunter green.

Fruit of the Loom also offers a very attractive sculptured rug in much the same shades. The cotton nap is deep and springy and, like the rugs described above, they are rubber-backed for non-skid safety.

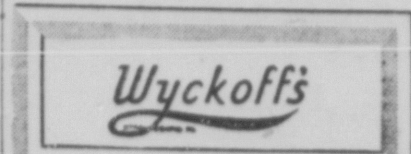

In this excellent selection, prices range from the aforementioned $2.98 for the 24 x 36 inch size, to $4.98 for the 26 by 45 inch. So, scatter your rooms with sunshine—the kind of sunshine that color brings into a cozy, livable home.

Christmas draws nearer and nearer with each shipment of incoming merchandise. It was practically upon us, as a matter of fact, as we watched Hattie Walters unpack dozens of panels and cloths for both round and rectangular tables.

The table panels come in two designs—one of star-decorated trees, the other of bells and holly, at $1.49. Cloths, decorated lavishly with Christmas ornaments against holly clusters, sell for $2.98 in the 32 inch square; $3.98, size 32 x 70, and $4.98, size 60 by 90. The 68" round is $6.98. Poinsettias decorated cloths 54 x 72 at $4.98 and size 60 x 90 at $6.98.

It has been our experience that these cloths leave early in the season long before most Christmas buying begins, for the shrewd housekeeper recognizes this as the time when a real selection is offered. Also, she sees it as an essential expense which, faced now, will not interfere with her gift buying budget later. In all of the cloths there is a sumptuous use of the traditional red and green, highlighted with gold.

In Hattie's department I also found a gift set of six prettily boxed dish towels, each marked for a day of the week. There are towels for Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday. But there is a little slip for Sunday which might be pasted to the wall right next to the towel rack to remind the man of the family that on Sunday no work is done—the family eats out.

East Stroudsburg Turns Pen Argyl Into Third Victim, 14-0

Cavaliers Turn Breaks Into Scores

EAST Stroudsburg twice pierced a stubborn Pen Argyl defense and then fought off a spirited rally by the visiting green and white clad eleven last night to earn a 14-0 football victory before a near-capacity crowd at Memorial Stadium.

The victory enabled the Cavaliers to stretch their winning streak to three straight, two of which have occurred under the school's new lighting system.

East Stroudsburg, featuring a team that makes and takes advantage of the breaks, scored just before the end of the first period when some alert line play by Pete

Giardello Rallies In Late Rounds To Earn Favorable Verdict Over Jones In Philadelphia

By Ralph Bernstein

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 24 (AP)—

Joe Giardello, 150, number one ranking middleweight challenger, rallied in the late rounds to win a unanimous 10-round decision over a surprisingly hard fighting Ralph "Tiger" Jones, 150, Yonkers, N.Y., at the Arena tonight.

The 23-year-old Giardello fought a listless, unimpressive bout although he earned the nod from Judge Max Baeroff 7-2-1. Judge Nate Lopinson 6-4 and Referee Pete Pantelico 6-4. The Associated Press called Jones a 5-3-2 winner on the basis of his more aggressive and more consistent performance.

Giardello, who expects to meet

Olson in the near future, was bleeding from cuts both above and under his left eye through most of the lack-luster nationally televised scrap.

The 3-1 favorite, Giardello rallied in the last round to look more like a top-ranking middleweight by staggering the New York Negro with a series of hard right and left hand punches.

Senators Sweep Important Doubleheader From Red Sox

BOSTON, Sept. 24 (AP)—

The Washington Nationals, told by "Bucky" Harris he was through as manager as of the end of the season, went out and swept a doubleheader from the Boston Red Sox, 1-0 in 11 innings, and 6-4, today to keep alive their hopes for fourth place and a share of the World Series money.

All Scoring Takes Place In First Half

EMMAUS —

Stroudsburg

High helped Emmaus inaugurate night football here last night and the two arch Lehigh Valley League rivals battled to a 6-6 stalemate on the latter's home field.

All scoring took place in the first half, as the Mountaineers failed once again to win on the Emmaus gridiron. No Stroudsburg

club in the last nine years has defeated Emmaus on its home soil.

Emmaus, featuring a small but solid blocking contingent, broke the scoreless deadlock midway in the opening quarter on an 80-yard sustained march.

The payoff play was a 23-yard pass from Don Cates to Ted

Seislow, who raced behind the Stroudsburg secondary and caught the ball in the endzone.

Emmaus' try for the extra point failed.

Stroudsburg took the kickoff and made a scoring march of its own which covered 60 yards and extended into the second quarter.

Paul "Doc" Lim passed to Dave

Nevel for the key play in the march, moving the ball from the Emmaus

25 to the three-yard stripe. Harry

Miller plunged to the one-foot line and Lim went over on a quarterback snarl.

Miller tried to run for the extra point but was stopped short of the line of scrimmage.

Defensive play highlighted the contest throughout the second half,

as both clubs failed time after time to get a scoring drive underway.

Each penetrated to the opposition's 30-yard line, but time after time the defense took the play away from the offense and halted repeated drives at this point.

Emmaus did most of its damage on the ground on end runs and featured solid blocking in front of the ball carriers.

The home club also demonstrated a good pass defense which limited Stroudsburg to three completions in 10 tries. Emmaus made good on four of 10 attempts.

Stroudsburg will attempt to land its second victory of the current campaign next Friday night when

Palmerston invades Gordon Giffels

Field.

Wood Charges Rival Claims 'Fabrication'

ROCHESTER, Pa., Sept. 24 (AP)—Lt. Gov. Lloyd H. Wood, Republican gubernatorial nominee, said tonight the Democratic campaign is one of "fabrication" which has "finally reached the bottom of the totem pole."

"My opponent, in his ignorance of affairs of state government, has aptly demonstrated his utter incompetence to manage the Commonwealth in a fair and equitable manner," said Wood.

In a speech prepared for delivery at a Beaver County GOP rally, Wood referred to Sen. George M. Leader, Democratic candidate for governor.

Leader said at Clearfield yesterday:

"I should wonder about the curious political temperament of such a man (Wood) who can scream that the Democratic party is controlled by so-called 'boss contractors' when he knows as well as I do that the contractor and architect friends of Gov. John S. Fine are prize examples of how well the Republican spoils system works for those on the right side of the tracks."

Leader had referred to a contract awarded by the General State Authority to a Wilkes-Barre architect firm to prepare plans for a 10 million dollar state institution for juvenile mental delinquents near Wilkes-Barre, Andrew J. Sordani, commerce secretary, is associated with the firm.

Wood told Republican here that Leader's speech was "another mirage which vanishes swiftly under the sunlight of truth."

"What he (Leader) didn't tell the people of Pennsylvania was that before the firm of architects was hired, along with another architectural company, its selection was approved and recommended by one of my opponents' principal Democratic supporters," said Wood.

Wood referred to Rep. H. G. Andrews, House Democratic leader who is a member of the GSA, and said the Democrat recommended selection of the architects in question.

"The only complaint about the selection of the architects comes from my opponent—not from one of his principal backers and fellow Democrat, Mr. Andrews, who passes on all architects hired by the GSA," Wood said.

In another development, Sen. John M. Walker (R—Allegheny) said at Franklin that Pennsylvania may be in for a statewide wage tax if Leader is elected.

At Harrisburg, the Republican State Committee announced the appointment of past commanders of state veterans' organizations to a committee headed by Revenue Secretary Otto F. Messner. They include:

Paul R. Selecky, Wilkes-Barre, American Legion; Elmer D. Christine, Stroudsburg, Veterans of Foreign Wars; Deno Pantelakos, Wilkes-Barre, Disabled American Veterans.

Osteopaths Oppose DPA Health Plan

HARRISBURG, Pa., Sept. 24 (AP)—The House of Delegates of the Pennsylvania Osteopathic Assn. today voted opposition to a Dept. of Public Assistance plan to give an increase in relief grants to cover medical bills.

"Surveys show that this plan, now in operation in Snyder and Potter counties, is not in the best interest of those people who are dependent upon the health care provided by the Dept. of Public Assistance," said Dr. Robert D. Anderson, president of the POA. The Philadelphia physician said it was his feeling that small increases in grants to persons on public relief rolls could not possibly cover the payment for health needs.

Except in those counties, the Public Assistance Dept. reimburses doctors directly for medical bills incurred by persons on relief.

Leader Chides Wood On Food Surplus Lines

EPHRATA, Sept. 24 (AP)—Sen. George M. Leader, Democratic candidate for governor, said tonight his Republican opponent, Lloyd H. Wood, is having "a difficult time outdrawing bulging food surplus lines."

These lines, said Leader, stand as "a pathetic contradiction of Mr. Wood's expansive idea of good times in Pennsylvania."

"The other day at one of his campaign stops, there were more people in the surplus food line than turned out to hear Mr. Wood," said Leader in a speech prepared for delivery at a Democratic rally here. He did not identify the stop.

Leader said 845,000 persons in 42 counties are now receiving surplus food while Wood would "have us believe there is no unemployment or economic distress."

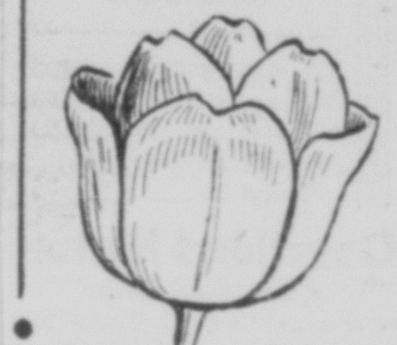

"If Mr. Wood, as he claims, has a spotlight of political honesty he uses for exposure of campaign falsehoods, he should state no time turning it on his own statement that Pennsylvania is a booming paradise of prosperity and progress in which everyone is living high on the hog and feeling no pain," he said.

"That will be earth-shattering, if non-comforting news to the 400,000 men out of work in this state."

"He should also tell us why, after ten years, the State Liquor Control Board suddenly decided to make a wholesale shake-up of all nine of Pennsylvania's liquor law enforcement supervisors."

"Was this a slick political maneuver to bring pressure on hotels, taprooms and night clubs in behalf
